The SCT Program

The SCT Program, financed by the Liberia Social Safety Nets Project, aims at providing income support to extremely poor and food-insecure households. It will provide cash transfers and accompanying measures to about 12,500 extremely poor and food-insecure households in Liberia.

It is being implemented in Bomi, Maryland, Grand Kru, and River Gee counties. These counties were selected because they have some of the highest rates of poverty and food insecurity in comparison to all other counties in Liberia.

It is planning to extend coverage to other counties based on new data and the availability of funds from the Government and partners.

What are Accompanying Measures?

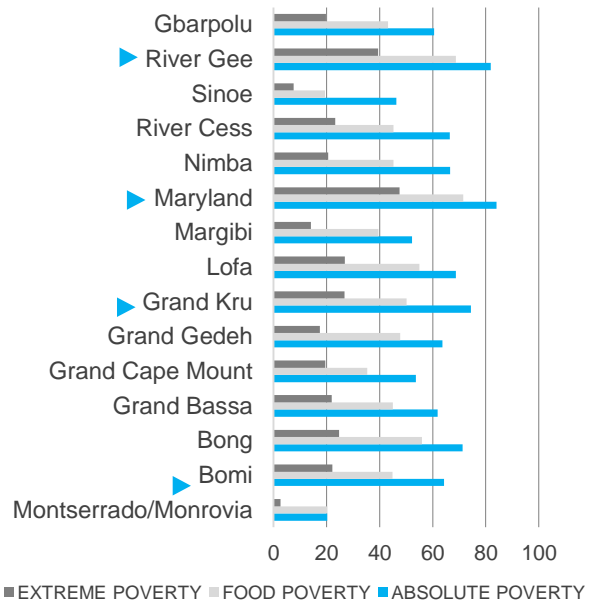

Accompanying measures, which can also be referred to as “Soft Conditions,” are focused on building resilience.

They are meant to encourage beneficiaries to be productive with the resources being provided through behavioral change, training (health and agriculture) and additional inputs (e.g. seeds for home gardens).

SCT partners with MOH to provide health training and the MOA and service providers to support home gardens.

Together with cash transfers, accompanying measures promote better nutritional and human development outcomes.

The Liberia Social Registry

The Liberia Household Social Registry (SR), is the government's information system that supports social assistance programs.

Financed by the Liberia Social Safety Nets Project, is to improve efficiency, enhance capacity, and strengthen the national social protection system in Liberia through the development of the basic building blocks of a safety net delivery system.

This component will finance the development of an SR—defined as an information system that includes data as well as MIS functions, to transform that data according to basic business processes for delivering social assistance. In particular, the SR gathers information on both potential and actual beneficiaries of SP programs.

What is a Social Registry?

Social Registries are information systems that support outreach, intake, registration, and determination of potential eligibility for one or more social programs (in which case it can be referred to as 'Integrated Social Registry'). In practice, social registries centralize data integration up front, collecting/compiling data for a registry of potential beneficiaries that is then drawn upon for eligibility determination of specific programs. They can also serve as powerful tools for assessing the "demand" for social programs by profiling specific needs and conditions of various population groups. In terms of their set-up, Social Registries vary significantly across countries (in terms of coverage, variables collected, institutional housing, approach to data sharing, etc.), affecting their potential uses.

Objectives

By building an Social Safety Nets delivery system, the Social Registry will:

1. strengthen the institutional framework for the delivery of national safety net programs;
2. facilitate the oversight and coordination of multiple safety net programs by the Government and implementing partners;
3. increase transparency and accountability within the management of each participating program;
4. avoid duplication of effort (for example, in data collection, household registration, and investments in separate MISs);
5. increase knowledge on poverty and vulnerability through a unified, single registry;
6. improve program efficiency by reducing unintended overlap in program coverage; and
7. increase the ability to respond swiftly to future shocks and scale up effective interventions.
